

To the healthcare community:

These are challenging times. The spread of COVID-19 has compelled us all to come to terms with new ways of living and interacting. As the world adapts to a rapidly changing landscape, we at ESPERION Therapeutics want to assure you that patient health has been, and continues to be, our top priority.

We understand the need to ensure that medical practices and patients remain as protected as possible. Therefore, until the situation improves, we are dedicating more resources to providing support and information through virtual communication.

We stand unified with the community in vigilance against COVID-19. In the spirit of responsible citizenship, we are committed to doing everything possible to ensure the health of our colleagues, partners, and patients.
